

Barry French, born in 1963

Head of Marketing and Communications at Nokia Siemens Networks

---

Biography

Barry was appointed Head of Marketing and Communications at Nokia Siemens Networks at the time the two functions were merged in May 2009. Before that, he led the Communications organization, starting with the announcement of Nokia Siemens Networks on June 19, 2006. Barry joined Nokia in May 2006 and held the position of Head of Communications at Nokia Networks.

Barry has a wide range of communications experience, both as a consultant to governments, corporations and political leaders and in senior positions for Fortune 500 companies, including Dell and United Airlines. Barry studied Political Science at Bates College and received a Master's Degree in International Affairs from Columbia University's School of International and Public Affairs.

Barry is married and has three children. He and his family are residents of Windlesham, United Kingdom, and Santa Fe, New Mexico, USA.